Amos Aked Swift (NZ) Ltd

Our Business Philosophy

Amos Aked Swift (NZ) Ltd (AAS) subscribes to the highest standards of professional conduct and ethics. We act in the best interests of our clients at all times, and hold confidential all information obtained from client projects. We endeavour to develop long term relationships with our clients. Our extensive experience, combined with our independence of thought, leads to innovative, quality solutions.

Our Management Team

The directors of AAS collectively bring to our clients experience of every technical and commercial aspect of the ICT industry.

Bruce Tichbon manages the New Zealand office. He was a founding director of AAS in 1990. His unique understanding of the NZ market is combined with extensive international experience.

Tom Amos is a well known entrepreneur, consultant and financier in the ICT industry.

David Swift has managed major consultancies in Australia, and is currently chairman of ATUG (the Australian Telecommunications Users Group).

Our Company

Amos Aked Swift (NZ) was formed in New Zealand in 1990.

AAS works seamlessly with its partner companies in Australia, GQAAS Pty Ltd and Wave Link Systems Pty Ltd. Cross ownership and shared directorships ensure a close working arrangement between the companies. Collectively AAS and its Australian partners have unrivalled experience in the design, construction and operation of carrier and corporate networks.

Since its inception, AAS (NZ) has provided an unbiased and totally independent consulting service. We have at no stage had any affiliations with or obligations to any supplier of telecommunications or services.

We have won a numerous prestigious awards. We won the TUANZ Advanced Education award in 2000 and the 2001 IPENZ Information Technology and Networks Supreme Award for our ISPNet Upgrade project. We also won the TUANZ Innovation Award in 2005 and the TUANZ Project of the Year (2005) for our part in Project PROBE, to roll out broadband to schools throughout NZ. Additionally, in 2001 we were among the recipients of the Deloitte's Fast Fifty awards.

Meeting Our Clients' Needs

Our approach is to work closely with our clients to deliver value for money and innovative solutions that meet their business needs,

AAS provides national and international coverage for the full range of strategic, business and technology consulting services. Where desirable, we are able to call on the considerable experience of our Australian partners to provide additional resources. The delivery of our services is supported by our experience and expertise in a wide range of relevant technologies and by the application of quality assurance processes and peer review to all assignments.

We have effective working relationships with a wide range of professional service delivery firms, including lawyers, management consultants, accounting and financial consultants and specialist engineering consultants. We also work comfortably in the academic environment with economists and researchers. We are thus able to undertake a diverse range of multi-disciplinary assignments.
